eMi has offices around the world...

who we are...

eMi is an Association of Christian Design Professionals: architects, engineers, surveyors, construction managers and others who seek to use their skills to serve the poor in the developing world. We serve indigenous and international Christian organizations that are serving the poor by providing design assistance that helps these organizations fulfill their calling. Our staff and volunteers serve from an overflow of the love of God in their own lives because Jesus first loved us.

what we do...

Since 1982 eMi has designed over 900 projects in more than 85 different countries. We partner with Christian organizations at the front end of development projects. Our services help turn their vision into reality. We survey, master plan, and produce designs, drawings, cost estimates, and more which are used to communicate with the project vision and begin construction. We design hospitals, orphanages, schools, ministry centers, and water systems, meeting many kinds of technical challenges. This ministry is made possible through the mobilization of teams of volunteer design professionals who visit our client ministries and project sites around the world.

Join us on a project trip where you can serve a world in need with your design skills.

we are the south asia office...

We are the South Asia office, otherwise known as eMi<sup>2</sup>. Located in Northern India, our office consists of staff, interns, and volunteers. We do the majority of our projects within India, but also serve in the surrounding countries of Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh, Myanmar, and Sri Lanka. The South Asia office is one of eMi<sup>2</sup>'s four field offices, meaning we are involved in mobilizing professionals both for design and execution of projects. The goal of a field office is to have a permanent presence and knowledge of the local culture in order to better serve its region specifically.
